Beaver Found in Atwater.
Oldest Portage pioneers have long agreed that the last of the beaver tribe disappeared from this section of the country decades ago and that has been the supposition for several generations. Down in Atwater one of the historical sights shown to strangers looking for the curious and unusual is the long outline of a grass covered beaver dam of wilderness days, but which is now so covered with the encroachments of nature that the unaided eye of the novice would see as little of the tracery of such a structure as the frogs and rattlesnakes that inhabit the big swamp back of it. Like the Ohio Indian the beaver is supposed to be a long ago "has been" and a tradition only. Wherever the remains of one of these former colonies is still intact it is carefully preserved as an interesting fragment of a bygone period.
But over in Franklin township along the course of the Cuyahoga river several of these little builders were recently discovered by a party of hunters whose good fortune it was to come upon them unobserved and who were thus enabled to watch them at their labors. The busy workers are constructing a house and breakwater and are easily the most interesting thing in the local world of nature.
While it seems beyond belief that any one would disturb or injure these creatures of skill and industry it is well to call attention to the fact that there is a rigid law for their protection and that it will be enforced to the letter in case of violation. The little colony has been taken under special protection by deputy game wardens who will see to it that punishment is swift and sure to any one caught molesting it.—Ravenna Republican.

NEW BUFFALO

April 29—Supervisors have been on the roads with king drags the past week, smoothing them up in spots; but if they made it their business first to fill up the chuck holes and look after bad sluices the roads would be so people could get along. So long as no ditches are opened and water stands on both sides of the road to keep them muddy dragging will not do much good even if it is the law to do the dragging.

PROBABLY A TIMELY WARNING

The time is at hand for neighborhood quarrels over gadding chickens and it is the opportune moment to patch holes in the poultry fences and train roosters and hens to stay in their own back yards. A gadding chicken in the gardening time is a nuisance and a great tax on the equilibrium of the gardener's self-control. It is the greatest of all temptations to shie a stone at a destructive fowl in the onion bed or in the flower plot and the chuckle is indeed most satisfying to see the offender keel over and give a few gasps and kicks and pass over the river to that place provided for the punishment of fowls which persist in making garden invasions. Therefore, in behalf of the peace and dignity of the city and that good dispositions be not fractured and for the continuing good health of the poultry it is advised that all poultry yards receive immediate attention and that their defects be remedied at once.—Ex.

WANTS HUERTA TO STEP FROM THRONE

Proposal of United States as Outlined in the National Capital.

Washington, April 29.—The proposals of Huerta and the United States, with suggestions from Carranza and Gen. Zapata, was laid before Ambassador De Gama of Brazil, Minister Naon of Argentina and Minister Suarez of Chile, the peace mediators, at their meeting this morning at 10 o'clock. The first step toward settlement of the crisis, it was learned last night, will be an attempted arrangement of an armed truce, with strict maintenance of the status quo. This proposal is favorably regarded by President Wilson and will form a basis for further negotiations.

Want Huerta to Step Out.

The proposals of the United States, as outlined here last night, include the surrender of the government by Huerta, with no withdrawal of the military forces of the United States from Mexico until after an election. It is expected that Huerta will meet the demand that he abdicate by suggesting the delegation of his power to a man of his own choosing. Agents of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Great Britain are said already to be at work to effect means of running the government provided Huerta surrenders, while Secretary Bryan is actively working to bring the Villa government to an agreement.

Washington Continues Skeptical.

Washington continues to look with skepticism on the efforts of the peace-makers to bring the contending Mexican factions together. While hoping for the best, administration officials here realize the tremendous complications in the way of bringing Huerta, Carranza and Villa to a common understanding. It is generally conceded that the establishment of anything like peaceful relations between the Mexican factions would be one of the greatest triumphs of diplomacy in the world's history. In some quarters the belief is expressed that there will be more trouble in handling Carranza and Villa than Huerta. This belief seemingly is based on the conviction here that the power of Huerta has been reduced to the point where he will be compelled to yield. At the same time there is a strong element of doubt as to whether the mediators will be able to bring the Mexican revolutionary leaders into an agreement that recognizes Huerta as anything but an outcast.

REFUSE WAGE INCREASE

COAL OPERATORS TURN DOWN THE DEMANDS MADE BY ILLINOIS MINERS.

Peoria, Ill., April 29.—Illinois coal operators in joint conference here with the scale committee of the United Mine Workers have issued their ultimatum to the workers. They absolutely refuse the 4 per cent increase the miners are demanding in the southern field and also refuse to submit any dispute to subdistrict conventions for settlement except the operators and miners in that district agree upon the plan. The question of scale must now be taken up by the joint committee as a whole.

THE KINGDOM OF CORN.

Out of 170,000,000 acres planted to corn each year in all parts of the world, 105,000,000 are in the United States. Three-quarters of the world's crop of this great cereal is grown under the American flag. This serves to show how intricate are the laws and how unattractive the practice which govern the spread of cultivated plants. All the old world is crying for a cheap supply of food. Corn offers this supply in palatable form—yet Europe raises only one-fifth as much corn as the United States, and throughout most of Asia, the crop is negligible. A great deal is imported to Europe, especially from Argentina, but even so, Portugal, Serbia, Bulgarian and some districts of Italy are the only old-world countries where corn has become the chief food of the population.

FACT

Evidence that can be verified. Fact is what we want. Opinion is not enough. Opinions differ. Here's a Canfield fact. You can test it.

Elm Rhodes, Canfield, Ohio, says: "My back was occasionally so lame I could not get out of bed without assistance. I frequently got up seven or eight times at night and if the kidney secretions were allowed to stand, they deposited sediment. I suffered from these troubles until I could stand them no longer. A friend told me that Doan's Kidney Pills had cured him of kidney trouble and I got a box at Morris' Drug Store. I noticed relief from the second box. I was encouraged and continued using Doan's Kidney Pills until I had taken six boxes. By that time I was well. You may continue to publish my former endorsement."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Rhodes had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.
